

SHE RAVED OF HER WRONGS.

BROKER SCOTT'S FORMER COOK SAYS HE DROVE HER INSANE.

She is Accused for Her Wild Behavior in Brooklyn. Her Sister, Bridget, is Alleged to Have Driven Her Mad.

The attention of Police Commissioner Murray of the Broadway squad was attracted about 10 o'clock yesterday morning to a short, stout woman of middle age, who was running up and down the street in front of the Broadway Tabernacle, eating the churchgoers right and left. The woman was hatless, and her long black hair hung loosely over her head and shoulders. She had on a soiled black dress of good material, and in her hand she had two rolls of paper, which she waved in the air. Every now and then she would hold one of the papers and read its contents in an audible tone.

Murray seized her by the arm and said: "You'd better come with me."

"No," she replied to the man. "I must go. I must. Don't you see it in the papers? I mean 'And the said Bridget Hickley is alleged to have driven her mad. Hear that?'"

"That's in the papers, and I must see my lawyers."

The policeman took her to the Twenty-ninth street station house, and later arraigned her in the Jefferson Market Police Court, where Justice Kelly committed her for examination as to her sanity.

The woman kept raving about the suit and accusing somebody of having driven her crazy. Once or twice she seemed to suddenly come to her senses. Then she would say: "Oh, why can't I keep my head?"

One of the court officers induced her to let him look at the papers she had in her hand. She drew a typewritten affidavit, on one side was written, Bridget Hickley, on the other, John Scott, her former employer.

In the affidavit, the former name was the address 128 West Twenty-first street. It was in the suit for $10,000 against one George S. Scott, for false imprisonment. It is dated Dec. 20, 1901, and is signed by Bridget Hickley, by occupation a cook, on Dec. 10, 1901, was in the employ of Mr. George S. Scott of 28 West Fifty-seventh street, she applied to Mr. Scott for the position on Dec. 5, and after giving her a two weeks' trial. At the expiration of that time, Mr. Scott told her to leave; she refused because her time was not up, and Mrs. Scott had her arrested.

She was taken to the Twenty-ninth street station house and there locked up for three hours in a room with other mad women. She was released at 10 o'clock, and she was released at 10 o'clock.

The next morning she was again taken to the court. Mr. Scott's lawyer, John J. Kelly, said: "You are discharged, but you must remain in the hospital for three days. If you are in trouble if you do." She was then released.

The paper goes on to say that Mr. Scott caused the plaintiff's arrest with a malicious intent to injure her reputation. Because her terrible disgrace, and injured her in both mind and body and she was released at 10 o'clock.

THE SOUTHERN REPUBLIC.

Address From Several Countries in Which We Are Interested.

The Government of the republic of Ecuador is striving to promote the success of the International Exposition that is to be held next March in Quito.

The attention of the trade of the South American countries, will be well represented at the Exposition, but the enterprising Americans have not yet been heard from, though Quito is but a short voyage from San Francisco.

The recent report that President Palacio of Venezuela had resigned, and that a constitutional power came through despatches from Caracas. The opposition at the capital and at Maracaibo to his course has been of a dangerous kind, and he has had warnings to beware of the fate of Balmaine of Chili and Deodoro of Brazil.

South American usurpers. He has made preparation to meet the revolt that may break out at any time. The news from Caracas in all the papers is to the effect that the President is in a peaceful and well-governed country, with an excellent constitution, and because the general feeling of the people is in favor of the title of "Doctor," has been commendable in the past.

In the case of Paraguay there has been a relaxation of the martial law that was established in October by the policy of President Gonzalez toward the defeated adversaries of the Government of General Ramirez. In the revolt of Oct. 10, the total losses on both sides were thirty killed and fifty wounded.

The reports from the Argentine Republic give grounds of apprehension that the Presidential election will be the cause of civil war. There are adherents of Gen. Roca and Gen. Beltrame, and the forces of Roca have threatened to get a Presidential candidate. President Pellegrini has been faithful, but several of the army have shown their readiness to support a Presidential candidate.

The army has been sent to the western frontier to guard against raids from Chili, and a Buenos Aires correspondent writes from the southern provinces of Chili are favorable. The railroad between Valparaiso and Buenos Aires is nearly completed, and it is expected that the traffic early next year, if there does not break out.

From the republic of Costa Rica there are assurances that serious projects for the development of the country's resources will soon be undertaken by the National Agricultural Association, of which President Rodriguez is the president. The main objects of the association are the advancement of agriculture and the promotion of commerce.

President Leizaola of the republic of Honduras has been elected. There have been several elections between the opposing parties, but the Government has been able to maintain its position. The main objects of the association are the advancement of agriculture and the promotion of commerce.

PERIL IN FLATBUSH HOMES.

GAS TURNED OFF AT THE WORKS AND TURNED ON AGAIN.

It Was Midnight, and the Gas Dots Burning in the Rooms of the Flatbush Works, when the Gas was Turned Off.

The town of Flatbush is supplied with gas from the Flatbush Gas Works, at the lower end of Clarkson street. At 11:45 on Saturday night Police Officer James Dougherty was patrolling his beat on Flatbush avenue, near Grand street, when the lights in the street lamps went out, leaving the town in total darkness as far as the eye could see south of East Broadway. He ran to the Town Hall, a short distance away, and found the building in total darkness. Police Officer Whalen, who was in charge, was asleep in the dormitory, and this room Dougherty found was full of gas. Hastily throwing open the window he aroused Whalen, who said that when he retired he had turned the gas in the room half way down. Dougherty then returned to his post and rapped for Sergeant Gillen, who was on the next post, and he in turn rapped for Police Officer Burns on the adjoining post. Dougherty then returned to his post and rapped for Sergeant Gillen, who was on the next post, and he in turn rapped for Police Officer Burns on the adjoining post.

The three officers found that the lights had been extinguished for fully a mile along Flatbush avenue south of East Broadway and on Grand street as far as Lot street, all of Avenue A, Ocean avenue from Church lane to Avenue B, Waverly avenue, East Eighth street, and in the vicinity of the Knickerbocker Field Club.
